NATIONAL TRAINER: TERRI MURPHY

Our military protects us every day in ways that most of us are not even remotely aware. As real estate professionals, it is our responsibility to return a level of care when they need professional real estate assistance when buying or selling a home. In this session, you will receive detailed key information and specific initiatives to equip and prepare you with awareness, skills and out-reach strategies to help our military with their housing needs. We will review how to create a needs analysis, military income and finance programs, working with active, deployed and retired veterans, military family data and stats and how to reach those seeking housing.

We owe it to our military to advance our skills to make their real estate transactions a helpful and great experience.
